

Kanine Korner

By FRANCIS X. LOHMAN

The big canine question of the week centers around this question mark. Can a 150-pound St. Bernard find happiness with a 10-pound toy-miniature Poodle?

Mrs. Bernard Cohen of Denver, Colorado says yes and she has a fat fluffy pup called Noodle to prove it.

The Poodle, a 2-year old female named Kelly, gave birth to Noodle on May 10. How about that for a combination . . . St. Bernard and Poodle. The puppy is big with all the signs of getting much bigger.

Mrs. Cohen maintains the only possible father is Brandy, a St. Bernard who lives across the street. She further pointed out that a veterinarian and a Poodle breeder told her that such a marriage is "outlandish but impossible." On the other paw, another vet avers he is a "nonbeliever." What do you think?

BOWSER BROWSINGS

Do you own an AKC registered Dalmatian? If so, you can enter your "pride and joy" in the upcoming twin Dalmatian specialty shows scheduled for the weekend of October 11. Dalmatian Club of America and the Dalmatian Club of Southern California are combining their efforts to make Dali-history. For further info, write to Edith Izant, Specialty Show Secretary, 8311 La Sierra Ave., Whittier, Calif.

Ann Sewell, author of the all time great favorite, Black Beauty, once said and I believe so factually so — "People may talk as much as they like about their religion, but if it does not teach them to be good and kind to man and beast, alike, then it is a sham . . ."

"Dogs are many different things to many different people but to the dog, you are his god . . . And keep this in mind, too, a dog is the only true love that money can buy. For a little bit of food and some shelter, a dog will love and guard you until death silences his faithful, beating heart."

THE JULY ISSUE of the nationally circulated Popular Dogs Magazine boasts 242 pages, the largest in its or any competitive dog magazine's history. Publisher George Foley and managing editor Joan Brearley can take a well deserved bow (wow).

Holiday Humane Society, headed by Mrs. Nels Gross, needs the support of everyone who loves God's dumb but none the less loved creatures. Donations are gratefully accepted. Over 150 precious dogs of all breeds, types and sizes are available for adoption to good homes at all times. Perhaps there's a little canine guy or gal waiting for you at this haven for dogs — Holiday Humane Society. Go visit their adoption kennels at 7301 Fulton, North Hollywood, Calif.

National Dog Week is set for September 22 through 28. "Deserve to be your year's slogan."

BREED OF THE WEEK—BICHONS FRISES. Indeed, the Bichon Frises is a very ancient breed of dog as evidenced by mentions of this eye-catching, lovable French canine creation, as far back as 230 b. c.

Actually, the Bichons Frises (pronounced "Beeshon Freezay") was found in greatest numbers on the largest of the Canary Islands, Teneriffe, a possession of Spain.

The initial popularity of the Bichons began in the late 15th and early 16th centuries. At that time, two French sovereigns, Francis I and Henry III, imported several of these dogs for court living. Instantly, he was a royal favorite and extolled in paintings and literature.

Sadly, however, during the 19th century, his popularity decreased and he became a "dog of the streets"—called the little sheepdog. Many could be found frolicking through back alleys and dingy streets fraternizing with organ grinders and peddlers, leading blind beggars and performing tricks for handouts at inns and taverns.

THE BICHONS FRISES is recognized officially by the kennel clubs of France, Spain, Italy and Belgium. The first few representatives of the breed arrived on our shores in 1956 but as yet this diminutive little doggie is not recognized by the American Kennel Club and so, therefore, cannot be exhibited at American dog shows but I feel the day of his acceptance is not far off.
